Students working today, to ensure their success tomorrow.

Work Study Program
Work Study is an employment opportunity in which the student earns money, while gaining valuable work experience. When the student completes the FAFSA for the following year, any funds he/she has earned at a Work Study job is ignored by the FAFSA. This allows the student to earn a salary without it negatively affecting their future financial aid. You may find employment either on-campus or off-campus, depending upon your major. All monies you earn from working are paid directly to you by your employer in the form of a paycheck. If you work on campus, you may work up to 20 hours per week. If you work off-campus, you can work up to 19 hours per week.

To participate you must be awarded Work Study as part of your financial aid package. The Work Study award amount on your Award Letter notifies you of the gross amount that you may earn that is considered “Work Study”.

Students working today, to ensure their success tomorrow.

For more Information go to:
http://eagle.northwestu.edu/financialaid/student_employment.php

Current Off-campus positions can be found through the job search program: http://eagle.northwestu.edu/jobsearch/

On-campus jobs are available to all students, and are not restricted by major or by Work Study eligibility. Off-campus Work Study positions are restricted to non religious majors with Work Study eligibility.

Get hired! by Doctors, Financial Advisors, Insurance Agents, Schools, City Governments, and Youth and Community Service Organizations.

Please refer your Work Study questions to the Work Study Coordinator:

John Hadley
Northwest University
Financial Aid Services
PO Box 579
Kirkland, WA 98083
425-889-4090
john.hadley@northwestu.edu

Northwest UNIVERSITY