Community Vision

A Message from the Vice President of Student Development

On behalf of the entire Student Development team, welcome to Northwest University! We are so glad you are here! Our department is deeply committed to fostering an environment where each student is empowered to learn and grow. Our prayer is for you to thrive during your time at Northwest University.

The community handbook plays a critical role in our life together and provides a framework for our collective behavioral standards. It is intended to clarify expectations which keep us safe and engaged in the work of learning as we actively follow Christ. Please take the time to read this handbook carefully. These policies and guidelines represent the collective interests of our entire University community—the university board, faculty, staff, and students.

Each member of the University, including you, plays a role in shaping our community identity and experience. We invite you to take that responsibility seriously and to live into these behavioral standards for the sake of creating a flourishing learning environment—for yourself and others.

May your time at Northwest University be blessed and may your relationship to the community be mutually enriching.

Dr. Rick Engstrom

Vice President of Student Development

Living and learning together in Christian community is both enriching and challenging. Members of this community seek to make evident the presence and work of God by His Holy Spirit in each of our lives. The Bible teaches that the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control (Galatians 5:22-23a). As these characteristics take root, grow and mature, each member of this community will become more conformed to the image of Christ and guided by the Holy Spirit. As this work continues, community life will be ever more vital.

The community at Northwest University has chosen to call for obedience to moral law as taught in the Old and New Testaments and exemplified in the life of Jesus Christ. The privileges, and responsibilities outlined in this handbook attempt to reflect Biblical living. It is understood that the Christian community at large adheres to a variety of standards, opinions, and interpretations of Biblical principles. Because all of us come to this community with varied backgrounds, traditions, and understandings, we acknowledge that it is impossible to create community distinctives with unanimous agreement.

Nevertheless, expectations must be set and specified to ensure orderly community life. This does not suppose or imply that other avenues of thought are necessarily wrong but instead attempts to define a framework for this community where mutual respect and Christian formation may flourish. For some, this will require the limiting of their individual liberties out of respect for other members of the community; for others this requires offering understanding and grace to those who do not share identical views. In the instance of disagreement about the standards outlined here, the University retains the right of interpretation of the Community Handbook. Violations of the student community handbook may result in student accountability processes as well as the filing of criminal charges for illegal activities. Violations of the University's Nondiscrimination and Harassment Policy ("Nondiscrimination Policy") and Sexual Harassment Policy (Title IX) are handled under the corresponding, respective grievance procedures.

Membership in the Northwest University community is obtained through application and invitation. As a result of an approved application, those who accept an invitation to join the community agree to live according to the principles of the community. Individuals who are invited to become members of this community but cannot, with integrity, commit to live by the community standards are advised not to accept the invitation but rather to seek a learning experience more suitable to them. It is the hope and goal of the University that, as a community of believers, we will learn to live with one another in peace.

Community Handbook

The Community Handbook is published on the Northwest University website to acquaint students with the Northwest University policies, procedures, and expectations regarding student conduct. The Handbook describes what students can expect of the University and what the University expects of students. All expectations are designed to assist students in their adventure of carrying the call of Christ. When students apply for admission, they must indicate that they have made a personal commitment to Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior and that they are willing to live according to the lifestyle standards of the University community.

Northwest University students are expected to recognize their responsibility to God by careful use of their time and to engage only in such activities as may contribute to their spiritual, moral, intellectual, and physical well-being. Questionable entertainment and all activities which diminish a person's moral sensitivity and fervent walk with God should be avoided. Being an authentic follower of Christ in all facets of life, both on and off campus, is the desired distinctive of all students at Northwest University.

Northwest University will promote Christian citizenship through instruction, corrective confrontation, and accountability through the student accountability processes, when necessary for the purpose of developing and maintaining a Christ-centered environment. An acceptable citizenship record, which includes academic and financial responsibility to the University, must be maintained to qualify for enrollment, participation in student leadership offices, co-curricular activities, including all athletic and music programs, and graduation.

The University reserves the right to modify and amplify the standards and dates set forth in the Community Handbook and to use its discretion in the interpretative enforcement of all ideals and standards of conduct.

Northwest University is committed to a policy of nondiscrimination with regard to race, color, national origin, age, sex, disability, or genetic information. University's Nondiscrimination Notice provides information about the University's Nondiscrimination Policy. Persons having questions regarding University's Nondiscrimination Notice, Nondiscrimination Policy, or Discrimination Grievance Procedures should contact the Dean of Students or the University's Title IX Coordinator.

We, the people of Northwest University, carry the call of God by continually building a learning community dedicated to spiritual vitality, academic excellence, and

Biblical Principles of Conduct

At Northwest University we place a great deal of importance on relationships and recognizing the need for responsible behavior. The code of conduct is our description of the environment we seek to maintain. It is also your invitation to join us in a very special community experience. Should you have any questions about the contents of the community handbook, please contact the Student Development Office.

Assumptions

- Loving God is the primary motivation for healthy and holy living.
- The Bible, as our authority, provides the essential principles for personal and community conduct.
- God, through the Holy Spirit, enables the believer to live a holy and healthy life.
- Christ came to restore relationships.

Responsibility for Relationships

For the purpose of our community, we have identified the following specific expressions of love as being among the most desirable in our relationships.

Encouragement

We expect each member of the community to strive consciously to maintain positive relationships, which support, encourage, and help others.

We who are strong ought to bear with the failings of the weak and not to please ourselves.

Each of us should please his neighbor for his good, to build him up. (Romans 15:1-2)

Bearing with One Another

We are responsible to come alongside those experiencing grief, discouragement, illness, tragedy or other personal trial. Expressions of bearing one another's burdens include comfort, consolation, and intercession. Because of our humanness, difficulties in relationships can occur. In such cases we are to respond as the Scripture states:

...clothe yourselves with compassion, kindness, humility, gentleness and patience. Bear with each other and forgive whatever grievances you may have against one another.
(Colossians 3:12, 13a)

Speaking the Truth in Love

Speaking the truth to each other in love can strengthen a community such as ours. Problems in relationships and behavior can be resolved constructively by confronting one another in an appropriate spirit. If the welfare of the one being confronted is paramount and if the confronter is acting in love, the process can produce growth.

Reconciliation, Restoration, and Restitution

Healing broken relationships is necessary for a healthy community. When relationships have been harmed, regardless of the reason, individuals are expected to reach out to one another, to forgive one another, to restore relationships and to make restitution.

...and He (Christ) gave us the ministry of reconciliation... and He has committed to us the message of reconciliation. (II Corinthians 5:18-19)

Implementing the above expressions of love in relationships requires continual effort and sensitivity to others. Relationships of this quality enrich our lives, honor God, and assist in meeting the goals of the University.

Responsibility for Attitudes and Behaviors

Biblical Expectations

Scripture teaches that certain attributes are available to individuals through the Holy Spirit. These attributes include love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control. “Against such things there is no law.” (Galatians 5:22-24 NIV). This fruit of the Spirit is to be sought, encouraged, and demonstrated in our relationships. In contrast to encouraging these positive attributes of the heart, Scripture also prohibits certain attitudes which are sometimes difficult to discern but result in behavior that hinders relationship with God and others. Certain behaviors are even expressly prohibited in Scripture and therefore are to be avoided by members of the University community.

University Expectations

Also, in keeping with Biblical expectations, members of the Northwest University community voluntarily commit themselves to following campus community standards of behavior. This commitment results from the conviction that these standards serve the good of the individual as well as the institution. These Lifestyle standards are not set forth as absolutes or as an index of Christian spirituality, but rather as expectations of this community. Because of the importance of trust in and responsibility to one another, violations of these standards are regarded as a serious breach of integrity within the community.

In observance of scriptural admonitions to bring ourselves under the authority of government (Rom 9), members of the Northwest University community are expected to uphold the laws of the local community, the state of Washington and the federal government. Off-campus conduct, whether that conduct results in arrest, may be the subject of University Accountability Processes. Behavior resulting in arrest on or off campus is subject to review within the University's accountability processes.

Building on Biblical and university expectations, Northwest University is committed to cultivate Christian conscientious freedom in the lives of its students. This approach to responsible freedom is characterized by carefully considered, biblically guided decision-making in all areas of behavior, relationships, entertainment, and spiritual formation. It considers the impact such decisions have on the community, seeking to respect both the historical church and current cultures. Responsible freedom recognizes that Christians were called to be free not to indulge in sin, but rather to show respect to others and honor God with their life choices (Gal 5:13-14, 1 Cor 6:20, 1 Pet 2:16-17).

Lifestyle Expectations

As Christian scholars, we take responsibility for our academic work. Members of the community are subject to the demands of academic integrity such as honesty and giving appropriate credit to sources. Plagiarism and academic dishonesty in any form is not allowed.

Corporate worship, fellowship and instruction are an integral part of a vibrant Christ-centered community. Therefore, students are expected to attend chapel. Regular attendance is understood as a mature response to our community goals. Chapel attendance is required.

We celebrate our freedom and responsibility to worship. Members of the community are to observe the Lord's Day (Sunday) as a day set apart primarily for worship, fellowship, ministry, and rest. While activities such as recreation may be a part of the day, "business as usual" relative to university programs and services will not be sanctioned or encouraged except where necessary.

Our community embraces health in mind, body, and spirit. The university recognizes the danger to one's physical and psychological well-being in the use of certain products. Therefore, members of the community are to refrain from the use of tobacco in any form, alcoholic beverages, hallucinogenic drugs, and substances (including marijuana) or narcotics not authorized by a physician. Under no other circumstances are the above to be used, possessed, or distributed on or away from campus. Members are expected not to abuse the use of legal substances.

Our bodies and our relationships are to remain sexually pure. We do not condone sexual relations before marriage, outside of marriage, or homosexual practices. The viewing or possession of pornography in any form is not allowed on or off campus.

Our community strives to make life-enhancing choices in entertainment. Students are expected to be selective in their choices of entertainment and recreation. All entertainment choices (e.g., television, video, movies, Internet, computer games, music, publications, etc.) should be limited to those which contribute to healthy spiritual, intellectual, and social development of community members. Activities and entertainment that are of questionable value or diminish a person's moral sensitivity should be avoided including those that exhibit explicit violence and sexuality.

In the spirit of Romans 14:19-23 and 1 Corinthians 10:31-33, this community affirms that careful attention be given to not offend a fellow Christian by any action or behavior of its members, including decisions about entertainment.

We desire to be wise stewards of our resources. Gambling (exchange of money and goods by betting or wagering) is viewed as an unwise use of God-given resources, and therefore is not acceptable.

We are committed to the God given dignity of every individual. Discrimination against others on the basis of race, national origin, sex, religious denomination or disability in any form is not acceptable.

We are committed to a safe and nurturing community. Any kind of demeaning gesture, harassment, sexual harassment, threat of violence or physical attack is prohibited. Sexual Assault and Sexual Predation (the latter defined as any kind of sexual activity that is committed through coercion or manipulation--emotional, social, or by means of alcohol or other substances) will not be tolerated under any circumstances. Vandalism of property is also unacceptable. Students are expected to exercise moderation regarding public displays of affection.

Honesty, purity and holiness are cornerstones to integrity in leadership. Therefore, theft, lying, dishonesty, gossip, slander, profanity, vulgarity (including crude language), drunkenness, immodesty of dress and occult practice are prohibited.

We dress to show respect for ourselves and our creator. Students are expected to wear clothing that is both modest and gender appropriate. Swimsuits, sports bras, or other clothing that exposes midriffs may not be worn in common areas of the university campus. Clothing with slogans, logos, or pictures that are not in keeping with Christian values is not permitted. Students are expected to maintain good hygiene and wear shoes in common areas of the campus. Moderation should be exercised when wearing or applying body jewelry and body art.

Individual departments may maintain specific standards that apply to student appearance while participating in practicum, internships, performances, or other university representation. Northwest University reserves the right to maintain standards of appearance for all students.

Alcohol and Substance Use Policy

The possession, use, consumption, manufacture, or distribution of any type of marijuana product and paraphernalia, controlled medication not prescribed by a healthcare provider, or illegal substance or its synthetic variation on University Property, in conjunction with any University-Sponsored Activities, or while enrolled as a student is specifically prohibited by Northwest University policy.

The university recognizes the potential negative impact to one's physical, psychological, and developmental wellbeing in the use of certain products, specifically during the formative undergraduate years. Therefore, undergraduate students are to refrain from using alcoholic beverages during their enrollment time. Purchasing and/or providing alcohol to underage person(s) is also prohibited.

This policy reflects our conviction that such possession or consumption within the Northwest University community is inappropriate for health, educational, and developmental reasons. Criminal law informs us of the illegality of the possession and use of most mood-altering substances, and of alcohol by persons under the age of 21. The health risks associated with the use and abuse of these substances are numerous, including exaggerated mood swings from manic to severe depression, loss of memory and reduced cognitive ability, physical deterioration, and, in some cases, death. In addition, the potential of these substances to promote behavior that is destructive to both property and lives makes them unacceptable in a community committed to healthy development. For all these reasons, we strongly believe that the presence and use of these substances on campus is counterproductive to the educational and personal development objectives of the Northwest University community.

Definitions

- “University activities” are defined as those activities that are sponsored by a university department or are sponsored by a recognized student organization occurring on or off-campus.

- “University property” is defined as university-owned or leased grounds, facilities, or vehicles.

Sanctions for Alcohol and Substance Abuse Violations

Northwest University reserves the right to conduct a search anywhere on University Property, including any campus residence or any vehicle that is located on University Property.

Any student who is found in violation of the above stated policy may receive Northwest University disciplinary sanctions, up to and including removal from campus housing, suspension, or dismissal from the university. Guests on any of the Northwest University campuses found in possession of these substances will be asked to leave the campus immediately and their future access to the campuses may be restricted.

Violations of city, county, state, and federal laws regarding the use of illegal drugs and/or alcoholic beverages may result in referral to the proper local, state or federal law enforcement authorities as well as the University student accountability processes.

Description of City, State, and Federal Legal Sanctions

(KMC 11.80.210)

Liquor in public. It is unlawful for any person to open a container or possess an opened container of intoxicating liquor or to consume intoxicating liquor in a way open to the public or a public place other than a public place specifically identified and posted as a place where intoxicating liquor may be consumed. (KMC 14.24.050)

Illicit drug offenses:

The following sections of RCW Chapter 69.50 relating to drugs and other controlled substances, defining crimes and prescribing penalties, are adopted by this reference:

KMC 11.77.010

RCW 69.50.101 RCW 69.50.212 RCW 69.50.403 RCW 69.50.102 RCW 69.50.302 RCW 69.50.404 RCW 69.50.201 RCW 69.50.306 RCW 69.50.405 RCW 69.50.202 RCW 69.50.307 RCW 69.50.407 RCW 69.50.204 RCW 69.50.308 RCW 69.50.412 RCW 69.50.206 RCW 69.50.309 RCW 69.50.505 RCW 69.50.208 RCW 69.50.401 RCW 69.50.506 RCW 69.50.210 RCW 69.50.402 RCW 69.50.509

Any person convicted under this chapter of violation of any of the provisions adopted in Section 11.77.010 is guilty of a serious crime as designated in Section 1.04.010. (KMC 11.77.020)

Health Risks Associated with the Use of Drugs and Alcohol:

Health (and other) risks associated with the use of alcohol and other drugs include, but are not limited to: impaired academic or work performance; lost potential; absenteeism from class or work; financial problems; doing things one later regrets; conflicts with classmates, co-workers, families, friends and others; sexual assault, and other sexual violence; unwanted pregnancies; sexually-transmitted diseases; unusual or inappropriate risk-taking which may result in physical or emotional injury to oneself or others, or death; blackouts; hangovers; mood alterations and emotional instability; long-term health problems as described below; psychological or physical dependence as described below; and legal problems including imprisonment.

The use of any mood-altering substance, including alcohol, can lead to psychological dependence, which is defined as a need or craving for the substance and feelings of restlessness, tension, or anxiety when the substance is not used. In addition, with many substances use can lead to physical tolerance, characterized by the need for increasing amounts of the substance to achieve the same effect, and/or symptoms when the substance is no longer being used. As tolerance and psychological or physical dependence develops, judgment becomes impaired, and people often do not realize they are losing control over the use of the substance and that they need help.

Drugs such as cocaine, amphetamines, barbiturates, marijuana, ecstasy, fentanyl, and alcohol alter emotions, cognition, perception, physiology, and behavior in a variety of ways. Health risks include but are not limited to depression, apathy, hallucination, paranoia, and impaired judgment. All substances can have adverse effects on pregnancy. When two or more substances are combined, there is often an effect that is stronger than their additive sum.

It is impossible to accurately predict how an individual will react to a specific drug or alcohol because effects vary depending on the person, environmental variables, the dosage and potency of the substance, the method of taking the substance, the history of use, and whether the substance is taken in conjunction with other substances. Illegal drugs have particularly unpredictable effects due to variability in dosage and purity. Further, the overall potency of street drugs has increased dramatically making users increasingly susceptible to negative effects.

Alcohol acts as a depressant to the central nervous system and can cause serious short and long-term damage. Short-term effects include nausea, vomiting, and ulcers; more chronic abuse can lead to brain, liver, kidney, and heart damage, and eventually death. Ingesting a large amount of alcohol at one time can lead to alcohol poisoning, coma, and death. Even low doses of alcohol significantly impair the judgment and coordination required to safely drive a motor vehicle, increasing the likelihood the driver will cause an accident. Low to moderate use of alcohol increase one's risk towards involvement in a variety of violent acts, including rape and domestic violence. Moderate to high use of alcohol cause marked impairments in higher mental functions, severely altering a person's ability to learn and remember information.

Women who drink alcohol while pregnant may give birth to infants with fetal alcohol syndrome. These infants have irreversible physiological, mental, and emotional impairments. In addition, research indicates that children of alcoholic parents are at greater risk than other youngsters of becoming alcoholics.

Drug Free Schools and Communities Act Amendments of 1989

The Drug Free Schools and Communities Act Amendments of 1989 require that all institutions of higher education receiving any form of financial assistance provide each student the following:

1. Campus policies and standards of conduct regarding alcohol and drug use and the related sanctions.

2. Written information about applicable federal, state, and local laws regarding alcohol and drug possession and use.
3. A description of health risks associated with the use of alcohol and drugs; and
4. A description of treatment and counseling programs available on campus.

The illegal use or abuse of alcohol or other drugs by students interferes with the academic learning process and places the safety of individuals and the campus community at risk. This page provides a list of policies, programs, and information that is annually distributed to all students regarding alcohol and drug use and abuse. Northwest University conducts a biennial review of its program to determine its effectiveness, make changes where necessary, and ensure that sanctions imposed on violators are consistently enforced.

Students are strongly encouraged to read this implementation of the Drug Free Schools and Communities Act in its entirety. All students are expected to be aware of the information contained in this document. Questions can be directed to the Student Development Office at (425) 889-5234.

Assault

Physical restraint, assault, or any other act of violence or use of physical force against any member of the community, or any act that threatens the use of physical force is forbidden. Conduct—whether reckless or intentional—that a person knows, or which any reasonable person under the circumstances would know, places oneself or another at risk of bodily harm is subject to disciplinary action, whether the risk is realized.

Attire

Personal appearance is important, and students are expected to dress to show respect for themselves and their Creator by wearing clothing that is neat, modest, and gender appropriate. The University also seeks to prepare students for professional careers where certain standards of dress are required for employment. Part of the educational process, then, is learning to dress appropriately.

Swimsuits, sports bras, or other clothing. Students are expected to maintain good hygiene and wear shoes in common areas of the campus. Clothing should not depict alcohol, tobacco products, drugs/drug paraphernalia, or depict lewd, obscene, pornographic, sexually suggestive, racially, or sexually degrading, satanic, occult, or gang-related activities. Individual departments may maintain specific standards that apply to student appearance while participating in practicum, internships, performances, or other university representation.

Northwest University reserves the right to maintain standards of appearance for all students.

Behavior Resulting in Arrest

Members of the Northwest University community are expected to uphold the laws of the local community, the state of Washington, and the federal government. Behavior resulting in arrest on or off campus is subject to review within the University's accountability processes. Off-campus conduct not resulting in arrest may also be the subject of University Accountability Processes.

Bystanders

As a community of responsibility and care, student bystanders are expected to notify university personnel when a student needs emergency medical attention, or if the bystander witnesses criminal conduct or any situation compromising community safety. University judicial officers will practice reasonable leniency for all bystanders who committed violations to the community lifestyle standards, but who also reported or assisted during an emergency situation.

Students are still subject to federal, state, and local laws. The University will fully comply with any related criminal investigation(s) and cannot provide immunity from criminal prosecution.*

Dancing

The University does not sponsor, or permit events centered on social dancing. Dramatic, musical, and/or cultural dancing performances are subject to prior approval by the respective academic or Student Development department. Questions about appropriate entertainment, performances, and/or use of facilities can be directed to the Student Life Office.

Dishonesty Policy

As members of the Northwest University community, students are expected to be honest and truthful. All forms of deception and dishonesty violate our community standards and expectations. Violations include, but are not limited to the following examples:

- Knowingly providing false or misleading information, documentation, records, reports, or any other materials to a university official.
- Any intentional misrepresentation of fact (by action or concealment) used to manipulate or coerce another.
- Forgery or misuse of keys, access codes, or other instruments of identification.

Matters of academic dishonesty are handled through the Provost's Office (please see the Academic Catalog on Academic Honesty for more information). All other matters of dishonesty are addressed through the Office of Student Development and the student conduct process.

Entertainment

Students are expected to make selective, life-enhancing choices of entertainment and recreation. All entertainment choices (e.g., television, video, movies, Internet, computer games, music, publications, etc.) should be limited to those which contribute to healthy spiritual, intellectual, and social development of community members. Activities and entertainment that are of questionable value or diminish a person's moral sensitivity should be avoided, including those that exhibit explicit violence and sexuality.

In the spirit of Romans 14:19-23 and 1 Corinthians 10:31-33, this community affirms that careful attention be given to not offend a fellow Christian by any action or behavior of its members, including decisions about entertainment.

Gambling

Northwest University is committed to fostering a community that reflects integrity, stewardship, and personal responsibility. In alignment with these values and applicable Washington State laws, all forms of gambling are strictly prohibited on university property and at university-sponsored events.

Gambling includes, but is not limited to, betting or wagering money or valuables on games of chance, sports outcomes, or other events with uncertain results, whether in person or online. This includes activities such as card games, sports pools, and online betting when money or other valuables are wagered. Raffles not authorized by the university are also prohibited.

Harassment

Northwest University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, sex, disability, or genetic information in its admissions policies. Further, it is the policy of the University not to discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, sex, disability, or genetic information in the administration of its educational programs, including employment, scholarship and loan programs, and athletic and other college-administered programs and activities. As a religious educational organization, the University reserves the right to prefer employees and prospective employees on the basis of religion, and also reserves its right to prefer students and prospective students on the basis of religion. At this time, only traditional undergraduate students are required to comply with the University's faith requirements.

Reporting Procedure for Discrimination and Harassment

If you believe you have witnessed or been the victim of discrimination or harassment based on a protected characteristic, you may file a complaint or report with the University. You may file a complaint or report with the University by contacting one of the University's Equal Opportunity Grievance Officers.

Reporting any form of discrimination or harassment will allow the University to provide a prompt and fair resolution and provide you with further support. Reports of discrimination, harassment, or retaliation are handled according to the University's Discrimination Grievance Procedures.

Recognizing that immediate action may be required to protect the rights of persons who claim to have been suffered discrimination, harassment, or retaliation in violation of the Nondiscrimination and Harassment Policy, the University may implement interim measures, as appropriate. Interim measures may include:

1. A no-contact requirement.
2. Counseling; or
3. Temporarily rearranging class schedules or class requirements, or other measures.

Every reasonable effort will be made to protect the individual's alleging discrimination or harassment from additional harm.

Sexual Harassment:

It is illegal and against the University's policy for any student or employee, male or female, to engage in actions that sexually harass another student, prospective student, employee, prospective employee, vendor, visitor, or other person. Sexual harassment includes:

- Making unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, or other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature.
- Sexual assault or other acts of sexual violence or sexual misconduct.
- Making submission to, or rejection of, sexual conduct the basis for withholding benefits (e.g., academic decisions, petition approval, or pay increases).
- Stating or implying that a particular student's academic performance or an employee's employment performance resulted from the granting of sexual favors or the establishment or continuance of a sexual relationship (or similar statements to others).

- Stating or implying that a particular student's or employee's deficiencies in performance are attributable in whole or in part to that person's gender.
- Negatively commenting on characteristics associated with a particular gender; or
- Engaging in conduct that has the purpose or effect of interfering with a student's academic performance or creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive academic, student life, or working environment by such conduct or comments.

Sexual harassment can involve persons of the same sex or opposite sex. Sexual harassment may be verbal, visual, or physical in nature. More subtle forms of inappropriate behavior such as offensive posters, cartoons, caricatures, comments, and jokes of a sexual nature are prohibited, as they may constitute sexual harassment when they contribute to a hostile environment.

The University may discipline its students and employees for offensive conduct even if that conduct does not meet the definition of unlawful sexual harassment.

Sexual Misconduct (including sexual violence)

Northwest is committed to providing a safe and secure environment for you and other members of our university community. To this end, the University takes seriously allegations of sexual misconduct (see Title IX Policy for definitions), including sexual violence, sexual assault, sexual exploitation, dating violence, domestic violence, and stalking, and seeks to ensure that all students are informed of the resources available to them to help prevent, report, and respond to an incident of sexual violence. Sexual violence and other forms of sexual misconduct constitute sexual harassment. Students are encouraged to report sexual violence and other forms of sexual misconduct to the University. Reports and complaints of sexual misconduct (including sexual violence) will be handled under the University's Sexual Harassment Grievance Procedures.

Sexual violence (see Title IX policy) means any physical sexual act against a person's will or where the person is not capable of giving consent (for example, due to the person's age, or use of drugs or alcohol, or because of any intellectual or other disability that prevents the person from having the capacity to consent). Sexual violence includes rape and sexual assault.

Sexual assault (see Title IX Policy) means any actual or attempted sexual contact with another person without that person's consent. Sexual assault includes any sexual contact when the victim is unable to consent or has not given consent, intentional and unwelcome touching of a person's intimate body parts, forcing or coercing a person to touch another person's intimate parts, and sexual intercourse without consent. Sexual intercourse has its normal meaning, but it also includes penetration, however slight, of any intimate body part with a body part or object.

Consent is explicit, informed, voluntary, and mutually understandable communication to willingly participate in specific sexual activity without pressure, threats, coercion, force, or intimidation. Either person must also be able to withdraw consent and cease any sexual activity at any time. Being in a relationship, having previous sexual encounters, or silence may not be taken as an indication of consent. Similarly, a passive response or sexual advances that are not resisted physically or verbally do not constitute consent.

Someone who is not of legal age or is physically or mentally incapacitated cannot give consent. The use of alcohol or drugs may render an individual incapable of giving consent due to impaired judgment or the inability to make decisions or communicate intentions. Consent may not be given by someone who is unconscious, unaware, or for any reason unable to communicate her or his intentions.

Reporting Sexual Violence:

To foster the safety and security of the entire community, the University strongly encourages immediate reporting of all alleged instances of sexual violence. Sexual violence can have very serious consequences, including sexually transmitted diseases, substance abuse, self-harm, depression, anxiety, anger, crying spells, difficulty sleeping or sleeping too much, nightmares, change in energy or motivation, and post-traumatic stress disorder, among other things.

If you feel that you are the victim of sexual violence (or other sexual misconduct), please contact someone you can trust right away! Complaints and reports should be made as soon as possible and can be made to local police and University officials. See the University's Sexual Harassment Grievance Procedures for how to file a complaint.

Some University officials available to receive complaints and are trained to help are:

- Campus Security – available 24 hours/day at: 425-889-5500 or campus ext. 222
- The Title IX Coordinator
- An Equal Opportunity Grievance Officer (see Nondiscrimination Policy, Section 2)
- An Area Coordinator
- Student Life Office (campus ext. 5234 or studentdevelopment@northwestu.edu)

All University employees (except that receiving information in their capacity as a pastoral counselor or licensed counselor) and all resident hall advisors are required to report incidents of sex-based discrimination, including sexual harassment and sexual violence to the Title IX Coordinator. The Title IX Policy describes how the University treats student requests for confidentiality.

We will not blame you for what has happened to you, and we want you to know that if you have been assaulted, it's not your fault.

We do not require you to notify the police, but strongly encourage you to do so, as it is your legal right.

Retaliation means any adverse action that might dissuade or deter a reasonable person from making or supporting a complaint of discrimination or harassment. Retaliation can include threats, intimidation, unjustified negative grades or evaluations, demotion, deduction in pay, among other things.

Language

Purity, holiness, and self-control are essentials of a thriving community. Therefore, profane, vulgar, and crude language is prohibited, and its use may result in disciplinary actions.

Pornography

As a Christ-centered learning community, Northwest University is committed to upholding biblical values of holiness, integrity, and respect for the dignity of all people. In keeping with these values, students are expected to refrain from intentionally engaging with sexually explicit or pornographic content in any form. The University will comply with all legal requirements in the instance a student is found with illegal pornographic material.

Prohibited behavior includes, but is not limited to, viewing, possessing, distributing, or promoting sexually explicit materials such as videos, photographs, videogames, books, magazines, or other media. Students may not utilize the university's computing or networking resources to access, view, store, or share pornographic or sexually inappropriate content.

Engagement with pornographic materials undermines healthy spiritual formation (Ephesians 5:3, 1 Corinthians 6:18, and Matthew 5:28) and is inconsistent with God's purposeful design for human sexuality (see Sexuality). Students who are struggling in this area are encouraged to seek confidential support through campus counseling services or campus pastors. Our goal is to walk alongside students with grace, truth, and a commitment to spiritual restoration.

Property Damage

Damage to university property or the property of a community member as a result of vandalism, tampering, or destruction is prohibited. Artistic or viewpoint expression that damages or defaces property is not protected speech. Individuals found responsible for property damage - regardless of the damage being intentional or unintentional - will be held accountable for the costs of labor and materials associated with the replacement and/or repair of the property.

Sexuality

In an age in which secular society is increasingly confused about sexual identity and sexual purity, Northwest University (NU) strives to be clear and consistent with all members of our community about expectations regarding the highest standards of Biblical purity in interpersonal relationships. With a clear understanding of sexual identity and consistent practice of sexual purity by our community, NU can be an effective agent of the healing power of Jesus Christ to the victims of sexual sin in our world.

In keeping with Northwest University's mission and its commitment to evangelical Christianity, the University expects all members of our community to follow the teachings of scripture. We believe God's design for the gift of sexuality is that it is to be exercised and enjoyed (Song of Songs; Hebrews 13:4) only within the covenant relationship of marriage between one man and one woman (Genesis 2:24). This view of sexuality and marriage is rooted in the Genesis account of creation (Genesis 1-2), is affirmed by Jesus (Matthew 19:3-6; Mark 10:2-9) and is maintained consistently throughout scripture (Ephesians 5:21-33).

Sexual relations of any kind outside these confines of marriage are inconsistent with the teaching of scripture, as understood by Christian churches throughout history. This prohibition applies to marital infidelity, sexual relationships between unmarried men and women, and homosexual practice. Therefore, as a matter of moral and faith witness, Northwest University expects all members of our community to avoid such conduct themselves and refrain from encouraging it in others (Ephesians 5:3-7). We believe God calls the unmarried to live pure and celibate lives, refraining from sexual intimacy. Sexual celibacy is a worthy state for Christian men and women (1 Corinthians 7:1-7), as pleasing to God as fidelity in marriage.

Marriage

We believe God's intention is that those who enter marriage shall seek, in mutual love and respect, to live in Christian fidelity as long as both shall live. In upholding the biblical teaching and God's ideal for life-long, monogamous marriage between one man and one woman (Genesis 1:27; Genesis 2:24; Song of Songs; Ephesians 5:21-33; 1 Timothy 3:2; Titus 1:5- 6; Hebrews 13:4),

Northwest University seeks to employ people with a strong commitment to the sanctity of marriage.

However, we recognize that the Bible makes provision for divorce and remarriage for victims of adultery and abandonment (which can take many forms including abuse).

Pregnancy

Scripture urges believers to seek wise and Godly counsel when faced with significant or difficult life choices. Therefore, should a Northwest University student become pregnant while unmarried, the students involved are encouraged to communicate with the Director of Academic Success and Advising, who oversees accommodations services. Northwest University is prepared to stand with both the mother and the father as they consider implications of the pregnancy and life change.

The University is committed to responding in a redemptive manner, seeking to balance compassion with accountability. Students can expect to be treated with Christian love as they deal with their new circumstances. Every effort will be made to ensure confidentiality, but the life and health of the mother and child and the spiritual well-being of the parents are our primary concerns. While some students in these circumstances may choose to leave the university temporarily, it is our hope that any student who chooses to continue in classes during pregnancy will find Northwest University to be a supportive and redemptive community during this crucial time.

Homosexuality

Northwest University's policy on homosexual behavior is grounded in scriptural declarations about the same (Leviticus 18:22, Romans 1:24-27, 1 Corinthians 6:9-11, 1 Timothy 1:10, Jude: 7, among others). The consistency of these passages in their rejection of homosexual practice, along with the complete absence of any text or example referring to God's blessing upon homosexual activity or relationships, has been unwaveringly interpreted and applied by the historical church from its earliest teachers as a proscription of homosexual practice. As a Christian university, NU adheres to this same standard. At the same time, NU believes that the very passages referenced above also describe all human beings as broken and offer the hope of redemption, including redemption from sexual sin.

Due to the complexity of issues related to same-sex behavior, same-sex attraction, and sexual orientation, we are committed to engaging this conversation with courage, humility, prayerfulness, and care. NU considers all Christians to be engaged in a pilgrimage toward personal holiness, a pilgrimage that will involve struggles and will require the help and understanding of other Christians to achieve. Consequently, our aim in dealing with this issue is to offer safety that promotes openness. We pledge to extend compassion and care, communicating personal acceptance while providing accountability and assistance supporting NU students in their desire to live consistently with Christian teaching (Galatians 6:1-3).

Consistent with this standard, all members of the NU Community are expected to treat one another with respect and Christ-like compassion. Insults, slurs, and other forms of derogatory speech have no place in a Christian community. Overall, NU's approach to same-sex attraction and behavior strives for a holiness that reflects the compassion of Christ even as it provides redemptive accountability.

Gender Identity

We believe that all humans, male and female, are created in the image of God (Genesis 1:27) and that God loves each one of us. We recognize that gender identity is formed through complicated biological and social processes. We strive to be a caring and supportive community for those struggling with gender identity issues. At the same time, we expect all members of our community to exhibit a consistent gender identity for the duration of their time at NU (1 Corinthians 14:33); we do not approve of changing or attempting to change one's sex while enrolled at NU. As a Christian university with a commitment to a biblical sexual ethic and binary gender identity, our convictions have led us to provide separate housing for each sex since our founding. We will maintain our single-sex housing, based on a Christian understanding of gender that is holistic—taking seriously both the physical and psychological aspects of gender.

The Redemptive Hope of the Gospel

Northwest University strongly affirms the liberating power of the Christian gospel. All sinful people may be freed from former wrong patterns of life, including sexual sin (1 Corinthians 6:11). Like all other sins, sexual sin can be fully forgiven through repentance and faith in Christ's atoning work. As agents of Christ, we aim to offer compassion and care to anyone in our community who is struggling with sexual sin while also providing accountability and assistance in living consistently with Christian teaching. We recognize the difference between a person's attractions or internal struggles and a person's behaviors. As NU strives to be a learning community of grace, love, and truth, we hold our traditional students to the highest standards of Christ-like conduct. For that reason and because of the serious consequences sexual sin can have on the ministry of NU, we reserve the right to dismiss any persons who do not conform their conduct to these community standards.

Other Discrimination or Harassment

Discrimination or harassment based on an individual's race, color, national origin, sex, age, marital status, disability, or honorably discharged or military status is a violation of the University's Nondiscrimination Policy. "Discrimination" (see Nondiscrimination Policy, Section 10.1) means any unfavorable treatment because of the person's protected characteristic (for example, unfavorable treatment in hiring or pay because of the person's race). "Harassment" (see Nondiscrimination Policy, Section 10.2) is a form of discrimination, and is unwelcome conduct based on a person's protected characteristic. Harassment becomes unlawful and is prohibited by the University's Nondiscrimination Policy when the offensive conduct becomes a condition of the work or academic environment or when the conduct becomes so severe, persistent, or pervasive enough to create a work or academic environment that a reasonable person would consider intimidating, hostile, or abusive. Offensive conduct may include offensive jokes, slurs, physical assault, epithets, demeaning depictions or treatment, intimidating language or behavior, and threatened or actual abuse. Violations of the Nondiscrimination Policy will be handled under the Discrimination Grievance Procedure.

Theft

Theft is defined as the unauthorized possession, use, or transfer of any property, whether physical or digital, which belongs to another individual, group, or the University. Attempted theft is also prohibited and subject to disciplinary sanctions.

Threatening and Disruptive Behavior

Northwest University prohibits any behavior or statement of any type (on- or off-campus) that threatens the educational environment or the physical wellbeing of students, faculty, or staff. This can include any conduct that (1) causes or threatens harm to a person or property, (2) jeopardizes one's own safety or the safety of others, or (3) poses a substantial disruption to the learning environment—all as determined solely in the judgment of the University. Such conduct may result in immediate removal of the offending student from the campus if such removal is determined by the University to be in the best interests of the campus community and learning environment. The student will not be approved to return until the threat is adequately resolved, safety is established, and proper conduct is assured. Removal from the campus/classroom is considered an interim measure that precedes formal judicial process as outlined in the Community Handbook. In some instances, because of the time required for a thorough investigation, it may be in the student's best interest to voluntarily withdraw from the University until a long-term solution is determined.

If circumstances warrant allowing the student to return to campus prior to the completion of the judicial process, the Dean of Students will decide regarding when the student may be eligible to return to campus and any conditions that must be satisfied in connection with the student's return. These conditions may be created in conjunction with the student's academic dean, advisor, and/or program director. A student may appeal these interim measures and/or conditions for return using the same process as the disciplinary appeal described in the Community Handbook.

Tobacco and Smoking

In the interest of community health, Northwest University is a tobacco-free/smoke-free campus. Traditional undergraduate students are prohibited from possessing or consuming tobacco/nicotine products. Smoking paraphernalia or devices, including vaporizers, e-cigarettes, hookah, pipes, and related materials are also prohibited. (See Alcohol and Substance Use Policy for information regarding consumption of marijuana).

Campus visitors are respectfully asked to refrain from smoking/consuming tobacco on-campus. Designated disposal sites have been established near select entrances/exits to campus in efforts to discourage littering and smoking by campus guests in the neighborhood surrounding Northwest University.

Washington's Smoking in Public Places Law (RCW 70.160) prohibits smoking within 25 feet of any building entrance, exit, window, and/or ventilation unit. University visitors, including those invited by Northwest University students, are expected to comply with this law and honor our campus neighbors.

Weapons

Northwest University students are prohibited from possessing or storing the following on any university property, campus or site (including in vehicles on Northwest University property):

- ammunition
- detonating and explosive devices
- crossbows and arrows
- sling shots
- martial arts weapons
- bows
- fixed blade knives
- swords and other edged weapons
- knives with blades greater than three inches
- firearms
- air-soft guns
- BB guns
- pellet guns
- paintball guns
- any device utilizing aerosol or compressed air canisters to shoot hard projectiles

Any student who stores a firearm/weapon in any location on the university campus (including vehicles), makes a public display of a weapon or replica weapon, and/or discharges a firearm/weapon on the property of Northwest University is subject to sanctions including or up to dismissal from the University. This policy is intended for the protection of university community members and is not intended to interfere with academic instruction or provided services.

Major car repair is not allowed on campus. Minor repairs, such as changing a tire or headlight, are permitted as long as they do not disrupt basic operations of the University or cause damage to university property. Changing oil must be done off campus.

Community Rooms

The Community Room is located directly underneath building D of the student apartments (south end). It is furnished with a kitchen and offers full size appliances, a large screen cable television, seating, wireless internet, and several game tables. The room is open 24-hours for student apartment residents and is accessed using a door code. The Community Room may be reserved by completing the Living Area Room Reservation Request form the eRezLife and gaining approval.

Gatherings

Students have the “privilege of meeting” regarding the use of university facilities provided such meetings:

- Are conducted in an orderly manner
- Are scheduled with the knowledge and approval of the appropriate administrator, advisor, or faculty member.
- Do not interfere with vehicular or pedestrian traffic.
- Do not interfere with any classes, scheduled meetings, ceremonies, or other university functions or events.
- Do not conflict with the mission, vision, and philosophy of the University.
- Are scheduled by room reservation by contacting the Community Life Director.

Northwest University facilities are available for reservation by emailing the Community Life Director in the Student Development office. Students may reserve rooms for clubs and organizations, group projects, or other meetings in accordance with university guidelines. Some facilities require special permission from administering departments. Athletic facilities, including the Pavilion and Eagle Fitness Center, are available to students during monitored hours or by reservation directly with the Athletic Department.

A student who conducts or participates in a meeting that violates any provision of this policy may be subject to university discipline. Non-students who participate in or aid and/or abet any meeting or meetings in violation of this section may be subject to prosecution under the state criminal trespass law and/or any other possible civil or criminal remedies available to the University.

Health Insurance

The University recommends that all students carry a health insurance policy. A health insurance policy is required to participate in university sponsored recreations sports activities. International students are required to demonstrate proof of health insurance upon enrollment at Northwest University.

Northwest carries accident insurance for all current students. In the event a student becomes injured (on or off- campus), Student Development may be contacted to learn more about coverage opportunities.

Housing Policy

Northwest University is intentionally residential. Living on campus provides a meaningful complement to the classroom experience and shapes our learning community in ways that encourage holistic development. The University also believes in the value of community living and breaking bread as a profoundly Christian practice. Therefore, traditional undergraduate students are required to live on campus during their time at Northwest University.

As stated previously, as a Christian university with a commitment to a biblical sexual ethic and binary gender identity, our convictions have led us to provide separate housing for each sex since our founding. We will maintain our single-sex housing, based on a Christian understanding of gender that is holistic—taking seriously both the physical and psychological aspects of gender. In the case of a student whose gender identity is not compatible with this practice, we will make a reasonable effort to help the student find alternative housing options. To better understand the theological basis for our beliefs and practices around gender identity see the Assemblies of God position paper entitled “Transgenderism, Transsexuality and Gender Identity” and the section on “Sexuality” in the undergraduate Community Handbook.

Traditional students must meet at least one of the following criteria to qualify to live off campus:

- Living at home with parent(s)*
- 23 years old or older on the first day of fall semester
- Married;
- Parent/legal guardian to a child
- Employed where room and board are provided*

Verification by parent(s) or employer is required. Off campus residence must be within a 35- mile drive to campus to receive approval.*

All commuter students must complete an Off-Campus Application. Those who do not meet the qualifications may petition to live off-campus by completing the Application and completing a Residence Life and Housing Appeal Form. The petition should include all relevant information for the Residence Life and Housing Office to thoroughly consider the request.

Commuter students are still required to abide by all policies and standards of conduct in the Community Handbook. Students are responsible for providing the Housing Office with updated and accurate off-campus housing information. Students who provide false or misleading information may be subject to disciplinary action through the student conduct process, which could jeopardize standing at the University. Students may not share housing with someone of the opposite sex who is not a spouse or relative.

ID Key Cards

Each student must have their current Northwest University ID card for admission to the Caf, checking out library material in Hurst Library, recording of Chapel attendance, and for admission to NU athletic events held in the Pavilion. Enforcing this policy consistently ensures that students are getting the most for their investment. Cards also work as electronic keys for access to residence hall exterior and hallway doors. Replacement ID Key Cards may be obtained from the Information Technology Office on the first floor of the Barton Building at a cost of $25.00. Continuing students can get a validation sticker for their cards from either the Information Technology Office or the Library.

Keys

All students receive a key to a university mailbox, which is located in the Pecota Student Center. Replacement keys are $25 for a lost key. Keys should be returned to Mail services at the end of the student's education.

Student apartment residents are each issued one door key (per resident) upon check-in. There is a $25 replacement fee for a lost key. Keys may not be duplicated. Residents locked out of their apartment should contact Security.

Kitchens

Each Residence Hall has access to a kitchenette that includes a microwave, stove, rice cooker, and other basic kitchen necessities for light cooking. Refrigerators are not provided. Residents using the kitchenettes are responsible for keeping the area clean and free of personal cooking items when they are finished. Any utensils left in the kitchenettes may be disposed of without notice.

Kitchens and lounge areas are NU community spaces for residents and students. Use of kitchens or lounges for non-NU organizations or people is not allowed; however, exceptions could be cleared through the AC of those buildings

Modem Use

Northwest University provides wireless network access in all on-campus housing. Ethernet outlets are in each apartment's living room. Modem use on campus is prohibited.

Movie, Television, and Public Performances

Northwest University students are subject to copyright laws and guidelines governing public performances, including movies. Using discernment of their viewing choice, students may watch movies in their own residence hall room or apartment. Prior to hosting a movie screening, "Public Performance Rights" must be purchased through a legal licensing organization. Purchasing or renting a movie is not the same as purchasing a public performance license.

A screening is considered a public performance, and therefore not permitted, if viewed:

- in a residence hall room or apartment for an event, program, or large number of guests
- in residence hall lounges for an event

- in the Dining Hall and the Aerie
- in the Chapel
- in classrooms and conference rooms except during course instruction
- at any outdoor location on campus

All privately-owned software loaded on any Northwest University system must be installed by the Information Technology department and a copy of the licensing agreement placed on file.

Parking

All vehicles, motorcycles, and scooters operated or parked by students must display a current Northwest University parking permit. Students may not park on the nearby City of Kirkland neighborhood streets.

In the student apartments, there is zone parking with no assigned spaces for each apartment. Overflow student apartment parking is also permitted in the upper Barton parking lot. Apartment residents CANNOT park in the FIRS parking lot, on NE 53rd Street or on 114th south of 53rd. Violations could result in a fine and disciplinary sanctions. Parking within the apartment complex is for permitted Northwest University Apartment residents ONLY. Apartment guest parking is located behind the Pav or in the upper Barton Building parking lot.

Personal Electronic Items

Students should adhere to the following:

- Residents are permitted to bring items such as computers, lamps, grooming devices, and small personal-sized appliances. Microwaves or toaster ovens (in residence halls), or appliances with an open flame are prohibited.
- In the residence halls, the maximum size limit for refrigerators is 48 inches tall and 24 inches wide.

- At no time may more than 8 electrical items be plugged into one wall outlet (by using a surge protector). Only 1 surge protector extension can be plugged into one wall outlet: no “daisy chaining cords” – plugging one multi- plug into another multi-plug).

The university retains the right to limit the number of electrical devices used in one room if excessive use of electricity is found. For energy conservation, all lights and electrical items should be turned off or unplugged when not in use.

Personal Possessions

The University accepts no responsibility for any loss, damage or theft to personal possessions whether caused by fire, flood, other persons, disasters, or pests. Residents can obtain their own insurance for personal belongings.

Pets and Animals

No pets or other animals are permitted to be housed, boarded, brought to, or kept in the residence halls or student apartments. This includes dogs, cats, birds, guinea pigs, gerbils, rabbits, chickens, snakes, turtles, frogs, or any other pets or other animals not specifically mentioned herein. The only exception to this rule is small, non-poisonous fish stored in a one-gallon bowl. Aquariums that require electricity/battery to operate are not allowed. It is the responsibility of the resident to inform visitors that no animals are allowed in the residence halls.

Violation of the pet policy may result in a referral to the judicial committee. The resident will be directed to remove the pet immediately. Sanctions include removal from housing, which includes the forfeiture of the housing deposit. If the resident can remain in housing, the $250 violation fine and any damage the pet may have caused (or remediation costs) will be charged to the resident’s student account. The University does not assume that animals found in apartments are free of fleas, dander, and did not urinate or soil the flooring. Therefore, all charges regarding pet remediation (e.g., treatment for fleas, carpet replacement, and/or duct cleaning) are not able to be repealed.

Service or Emotional Support Animals:

In accordance with the Disability Accommodations Guidelines, students must initiate an accommodation request for a residential service animal or emotional support animal by following the process as outlined on the Disability Accommodations and Support Services page on Eagle, or contacting the Director of Academic Success and Advising by emailing ada@northwestu.edu. Students must provide recent documentation of the disability by a qualified medical or other licensed professional in a statement of requested accommodations.

Reasonable and appropriate accommodations are determined on a case-by-case basis for qualified students who have demonstrated a need or have a qualifying disability for these services. Students living on campus will need to complete a two-part process that has both approvals from accommodations services and Residence Life and Housing before bringing the animal to campus.

Quiet Hours

The noise level in residence halls and the outside area surrounding these living areas should be low during quiet hours 10:00 PM – 8:00 AM (including weekends); 9:00 PM – 8:00 AM (including weekends) in the student apartments.

Residents should maintain a low level of noise during the quiet hours, and those occupying upper-level apartments should be considerate of neighbors below. Walking heavily, stomping, or yelling is not permissible. Loud music or conversations, singing, loud gaming, or playing instruments during these hours of is not permissible. Repeated violations to the noise policy may result in a referral to the judicial committee. From time-to-time residents may have issues with neighbors and roommates. Residents are encouraged to use Matthew 18:15 as a guideline in all disputes with neighbors. If communication and dialogue are not successful, residents should contact their Area Coordinator.

Room Reservations

To reserve Perks lounge, GPC kitchen, Crowder lobby, the Gray/Beatty basement or lobby, a res hall study room, or the Apartment Community Room – please complete the Living Area Room Request form on eRezLife. Quiet hours do apply, and all other living are expectations. Movies cannot be shown in public spaces unless it is being used for educational purposes. TV use for movies, shows, or video games should be utilized with the greater community in mind. Individual use should be limited. Rooms may not be reserved for the entire semester or year; however, exceptions can be made for smaller rooms for life groups. Reservations are on a first-come, first-serve basis. Residents reserving the room are responsible for their belongings and cleaning up the space.

Room Searches

Northwest University reserves the right for university-authorized personnel to enter and/or search a student's room without notice in emergencies where imminent danger to life, safety, health, or property is reasonably feared; when the university is closing down at breaks, or when it has been determined, at the discretion of appropriate university officials, that sufficient cause exists. University personnel [professional staff] may enter and/or search a student's room, without notice when there is suspicion of probable cause to believe university regulations have been or are being violated. While it is preferred for students to be present, in rare situations searches may be conducted in the student's absence.

For unplanned service or maintenance that has not been requested by the resident, staff will attempt to notify students 24 hours in advance. However, depending on the severity of the issue and the staff's ability to reach the student and/or residents of a particular floor, advanced notice cannot be guaranteed. A work request submitted to maintenance is considered consent to enter. During breaks [such as Christmas and Spring Break] university personnel may enter university housing in order to routinely assess the condition of fire alarms, smoke detectors, etc.

Sharing Door/Room Codes

Giving out your door code is up to you and your roommate's discretion. You and your roommate need to communicate your expectations for sharing your personal door code. You may not share your door code with non-NU students. Stealing a door code and entering a room without permission is considered unlawful entry of a private residence and a major offense.

Residence Hall Lockouts: Between the hours of 8:00 am and 10:00 pm, if residents are locked out of their residence hall, they should contact an RA on-call or Security. The RA or Security will advise the student when they are available to meet to allow entry.

Between the hours of 10:00 pm and 8:00 am, if residents are locked out of their residence hall, they should contact Security.

Student Accountability Process

- I. Overview and Purpose
- II. Student Rights
- III. Procedures
- IV. Voluntary Withdrawal of Enrollment
- V. Sanctions

I. Overview and Purpose

Consistent with the University mission and core values, the student accountability process at Northwest University centers on student formation and learning. All University policies, including the Student Code of Conduct, are intentionally formational tasked with positively shaping both the collective community experience and the individual student. Since violations of the Student Code of Conduct range in severity and impact to the community, the student accountability process is designed to address student misconduct appropriately and responsibly.

True to our Christian faith and commitment, Northwest University strives to balance grace and mercy with high moral standards. Holding these values in tension can be a challenging task. We believe that Christ has conquered the power of sin and death and empowers His people through the Holy Spirit to live in newness of life. Consistent with Romans 6, the response to the Gospel is not to continue in sin, but to repent and live into righteousness. The pursuit of righteousness requires the work of the Holy Spirit and is powerfully embodied within the context of a gracious and integrous community. Therefore, the student accountability process at Northwest University strives to balance grace with high moral standards, and to be an opportunity for Christ's redemptive, restorative work to take place in students' lives—calling each one to righteousness and obedience to Christ through the power of the Holy Spirit.

The purpose of the student accountability process is to:

- Provide fair and reasonable due process for any student accused of violating Community Handbook policies, including the Student Code of Conduct.
- Determine if a violation has occurred and assign appropriate sanctions.
- Restore students to right relationship with God and others.
- Encourage students to live healthy, wholehearted, and integrous lives.
- Foster student learning and development.
- Protect the rights and safety of all members of the University.

II. Student Rights

Students accused of violating policies in the Community Handbook or other non-academic, institutional policies have the following due process rights and are entitled to the following:

1. Respectful treatment. As valued members of the Northwest University community and beloved children of God, students, regardless of accused violation, have the right to be treated with dignity and respect throughout the student accountability process.
2. Notice of alleged violation(s). Students have the right to be notified of alleged violation(s). For first-tier violations, the Area Coordinator will notify the student of the alleged violation(s) and summon the student to an interview/hearing. For second-tier or third-tier violations, the notice of alleged violation(s) may be included in the investigation process or with the conduct hearing summons by the Dean of Students (or his or her designee)
3. Participate in a hearing. Students have the right to a student conduct hearing with the adjudicating student conduct officer (also known as the hearing officer). The university reserves the right to summon a student to a hearing with reasonable, advance notice (defined as a minimum of 24-hours). This hearing notice will be served via campus email.
4. Present a defense. Following an alleged violation, students have the right to present a defense, including the presentation of witness testimony or exonerating evidence. This right coincides with attending a hearing. Students who fail to attend a hearing waive their right to present a defense unless the hearing officer agrees to review submitted evidence or a written defense that is provided alternatively to a formal conduct hearing. This evidence or written defense must be submitted prior to the scheduled conduct hearing. Otherwise, the information provided will only be permissible upon appeal and must follow proper appeals procedures (see section III.4).
5. Not participate. Conduct hearings and investigations are designed for the student to be heard and to confront the allegations against them (see II.3). Though the student is expected to appear when summoned by a hearing officer, the student has the right to refrain from answering questions posed during the hearing. The hearing officer(s) will give the student ample opportunity to provide a defense to alleged violations of policy, but the student will not be forced to respond to these questions. However, hearing officer(s) will still need to decide of violation and assign sanctions if appropriate. Therefore, students are encouraged to display honesty and transparency during the hearing process.

6. Access to records. In compliance with federal law, students have the right to access all reports and documentation that are part of their educational record, including student conduct records (see FERPA Manual for more information).
7. Support person. Students may be accompanied by one (1) eligible support person at any stage in the accountability process. The student and support person must follow the appropriate parameters outlined in section III.7.
8. Letter of finding. Following a conduct hearing, if the student has been found in violation of university policy, the student will receive a letter of finding that includes assigned sanctions. The letter will convey a summary of the incident, the applicable policy or code violation, an explanation of rationale (if needed), and a list of all sanctions.
9. Appeal. If a student believes the process or outcomes are unjust (in accordance with the three-fold criteria for appeals outlined in section III.4.A), the student has the right to an appeal hearing. The letter of finding will provide a deadline to initiate an appeal and information on how to begin the process. Further information on appeal procedures can be found in section III.4.

III. Procedures

1. General student accountability procedures. The student accountability process is designed to include the following stages (in sequential order):
 - A. Incident. An incident involving allegations of student misconduct occurs and is brought to the attention of Student Development personnel.
 - B. Investigation. Student Development will assign department personnel to serve as conduct officer(s) on the specific case. The conduct officer is tasked with appropriately and thoroughly investigating the alleged violation(s) and turning it over to the hearing officer. The severity and tier of the alleged violation(s) of policy is considered prior to assigning personnel to investigate and/or adjudicate (see III.2). For second- and third-tier violations, Student Development personnel will likely attempt to interview involved student(s) before moving forward with a hearing. However, if the assigned student conduct officer believes there is sufficient evidence, the process may move directly to a hearing. For first-tier violations, the conduct officer will also serve as the hearing officer, typically an Area Coordinator. In second- and third-tier violations, the hearing officer may not be the same person who served as the investigating conduct officer (see section III.2).

- C. Notice of Alleged Violation(s) and Hearing Summons. The student will receive a notice of alleged violation(s). This may occur during the investigation phase by the investigating student conduct officer or in conjunction with the hearing summons. The notice and/or summon will be issued via campus email. The hearing officer or designee will attempt to schedule the hearing around the student's class schedule. However, in rare cases, when a class conflict is inevitable or the situation is urgent, the student will be expected to miss class to attend the hearing. Students will be given a minimum of 24- hour notice before the scheduled hearing.
- D. Hearing. The format of the hearing is left to the respective hearing officer and does not follow a set formula or pattern. Ultimately, the hearing is designed to determine if a violation has occurred and consider appropriate sanctions. Each hearing will be shaped by the respective hearing officer to align with the values and learning outcomes outlined in section I. However, the following components will be true of every hearing:
 - a. Opportunity to present a defense. The hearing officer will give the student the right to present a defense, including the presentation of witness testimony and/or exonerating evidence. This right coincides with attending a hearing. Students who fail to attend a hearing waive their right to present a defense unless the hearing officer agrees to review submitted evidence or a written defense that is provided alternatively to a formal conduct hearing. This evidence or written defense must be submitted prior to the scheduled conduct hearing. Otherwise, the information provided will only be permissible upon appeal and must follow proper appeals procedures (see section III.4).

- b. Not participate. Conduct hearings are designed for the student to be heard and to confront the allegations against them (see III.1.D.a) Though students are expected to appear when summoned by a hearing officer, the student has the right to refrain from answering questions during the hearing. The hearing officer(s) will give the student ample opportunity to provide a defense to alleged violations of policy, but the student will not be forced, coerced, or unlawfully compelled to respond to these prompts or questions. However, the hearing officer(s) will still need to decide on the violation and assign sanctions if appropriate. Therefore, students are encouraged to engage with the hearing officer and to display honesty and transparency during the hearing process.

E. Letter of Findings. Following the conclusion of the hearing and after all subsequent interviews have been completed, the hearing officer will compose a formal letter of findings. This document will outline the alleged violation(s) and decide of responsibility. If the student has been found responsible for violation(s), the letter of finding will also include all assigned sanctions. Instructions for appeal will also be outlined in the letter. The letter of finding will be sent within five (5) business days of the last hearing or follow-up interview and will be issued via campus email.

2. Levels and conduct/hearing officers. The student accountability process is divided into three levels: first tier, second tier, and third tier. These violations are typically assigned to conduct/hearing officers in the following way:

- A. First-tier violations are typically assigned to an Area Coordinator. The Area Coordinator serves as the investigating conduct officer and the hearing officer. First-tier violations typically include quiet hours, tobacco, visitation violations, or other violations of this sort.
- B. Second-tier violations are typically assigned to Dean of Students, who serves as the chief student conduct officer for the University. Area Coordinators may be assigned as the investigating conduct officer and may be asked to attend a hearing, but they do not adjudicate violations at this level. The Dean, or assigned designee, serves as the sole hearing officer and adjudicator. Second-tier violations are most likely repeated offenses of first-tier violations or violations that typically include: alcohol or marijuana use, overnight mixed company, or other violations of this sort.

C. Third-tier violations are those that may require separation of the student from the University—e.g., suspension or dismissal. Area Coordinators may be assigned as conduct officers tasked to investigate allegations of third-tier violations, but they do not adjudicate violations at this level. Conduct hearings at this level involve a judicial council, which is chaired by the Dean of Students or designee. Judicial council hearings include a three-person council: (1) the Dean of Students or designee, (2) faculty member, and (3) staff member. Third-tier violations are most likely repeated offenses of second-tier violations, violations occurring while on probation, and/or violations such as sexual misconduct, harassment, threats to campus safety and weapons.

3. Appeals. Students are made aware of their right to appeal in the letter of findings submitted by the hearing officer.

A. Students may only request an appeal hearing for one or more of the following reasons:

- a. New information is available that was not available during the original hearing and that information may alter the hearing officer's conclusion.
- b. Due process was not followed as outlined in the Community Handbook.
- c. The findings or sanctions were inconsistent with the Community Handbook and/or were contrary to fact.

B. Completed appeals must be submitted via email to studentlife@northwestu.edu and the original hearing officer. They must be submitted within three (3) business days of the letter of findings' distribution. Students may request an extension to this appeal deadline, but extensions are not guaranteed.

C. Appeals are first reviewed by the original hearing officer or judicial council chair. If the hearing officer does not feel compelled to alter the letter of findings, the appeal is sent to the reviewing officer at the next level of accountability process (see III.2). Appeals of second- or third-tier hearings will be reviewed by the Vice President of Student Development.

D. Decisions of the respective reviewing officer/council are considered final. Only one level of appeal will be permissible.

E. Unless granted exception by either the Dean of Students or Vice President of Student Development, students who have been dismissed or suspended from the University through a judicial council hearing are ineligible to continue attending class or residing in university housing during an ongoing appeal process.

4. Relationship to discrimination grievance procedures. All alleged violations of the University's Nondiscrimination Policy are addressed according to the University's Discrimination Grievance Procedures. All other violations of the Community Handbook are addressed through the University's student accountability process, which is outlined above. The University's Discrimination Grievance Procedures, in compliance with Title IX, provides a prompt and fair resolution of complaints or reports of discrimination, harassment, or retaliation that violate the University's Nondiscrimination Policy.

A. Adjudication. If a student is found responsible for violation(s) of the Nondiscrimination Policy through an equal opportunity grievance investigation, the judicial council will adjudicate and determine sanctions. Since the investigation has already determined responsibility, the adjudication process picks up at section III.A.3 and follows the subsequent steps in the student accountability process. However, the adjudication process must also incorporate components of the Discrimination Grievance Procedures. Students are encouraged to communicate with the assigned hearing officer or Equal Opportunity Grievance Officer for further guidance in understanding how these processes align and work together.

B. Roles. In accordance with Title IX, specific personnel have been identified and trained to receive and investigate alleged violations of the University's Nondiscrimination, Harassment, Sexual Harassment, and Sexual Violence Policy. Further information on these roles may be found in the University's Discrimination Grievance Procedures.

- C. Confidentiality. Individuals involved in Discrimination Grievance Procedures may have certain privacy rights or concerns and the University will follow its Nondiscrimination Policy regarding confidentiality, (see Nondiscrimination Policy, Section 8). All complaints, reports, investigations, and results will be kept confidential and shared only with the individual alleging a violation, the individual alleged to have committed the violation, witnesses (as deemed appropriate), and person with a reasonable need to know the information (for example a professor or the Title IX Coordinator, and those involved in the process). If the individual alleging a violation has concerns about their identity or complaint being disclosed, then the University should attempt to address those concerns. The University may also disclose any information or documents as permitted by the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (“FERPA”), as required by law, or as necessary or appropriate to make a report to any law enforcement agency. The University will make every reasonable effort to comply with the reporting party’s desire for confidentiality.
5. Integrity initiative. Due to the restorative goals of the student accountability process, students who have violated the code of conduct are encouraged to quickly, honestly, and voluntarily acknowledge when they have violated policy by discussing it with an Area Coordinator. In efforts to encourage repentance and personal responsibility, student conduct officers will attempt to keep judicial action to a reasonable minimum and seek restorative strategies when a student chooses to act first and bring the violation to the attention of the student conduct officer.
6. Support person guidelines. Students may be accompanied by one (1) eligible support person to the investigation or hearing stages, or any other subsequent meetings within the accountability process.
- A. Eligibility. The support person is an advisor or supportive presence to the student and must receive the student’s consent to be present. Witnesses to the incident in question are ineligible to serve as a support person for the accused student.
- B. Communication. All communication will remain between the student and the hearing officers—before, during, and after the investigation or hearing. It is the student's responsibility to communicate with the support person. During a hearing or investigation, the support person or the student may request a brief recess to consult. Parameters and permission for the recess are at the discretion of the hearing officer.

- C. Scheduling. Scheduling accommodations will not be made for a support person or serve as a justifiable rationale for delay or rescheduling.
- D. Disruptions. Support persons must respect the process by not interrupting the hearing or investigation or speaking on behalf of the student. If the support person is disruptive or noncompliant, the hearing officer may issue a verbal warning and/or dismiss the support person from the hearing.
- E. Confidentiality. All information shared within a conduct hearing is considered confidential, and it is expected that support persons comply with any ongoing needs for confidentiality or investigative expectations communicated by the hearing officers.

7. Communication with parents. Students are encouraged through the accountability process to share information with their parents or legal guardians. The Federal Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) places specific limitations on student education record information University employees may share with parents or guardians, including student conduct records. In many cases, the student possesses the right to disclose or not disclose education record information with parents. However, University employees may disclose student conduct record information to parents without written prior consent from the student if the student:

- is claimed as a dependent by the parent(s) for income tax purposes.
- is experiencing a health or safety emergency
- violated any Federal, State, or local law; or
- violated institutional policy regarding the use or possession of alcohol or a controlled substance and the student is under the age of 21.

The complete University policy is found in the FERPA Manual, which is available in the Registrar's Office. Students may complete a Release of Information Form through the Office of Student Development to grant permission for Student Development personnel to discuss information with their parent(s).

8. Confidentiality. Confidentiality is another essential element of a trustworthy student accountability process. Whenever possible, the student conduct officers will protect the identity of any third parties who may have provided information pertaining to the judicial case. However, this is balanced by a student's right to confront allegations and provide a defense. The information shared by a student during an accountability process is used only for investigatory or mandated reporting purposes and is otherwise held in the strictest of confidence. Rules regarding confidentiality are different for complaints under the University's Nondiscrimination Policy. Allegations of sexual violence will be reported to the Title IX Officer. And while a victim's request for confidentiality will be respected, if possible, community safety concerns may require the University to pursue allegations of serious sexual violence. Please see the University's Nondiscrimination Policy, Section 8, for more information on confidentiality through those processes.
9. Records. The Dean of Students is responsible for maintaining and completing student accountability records. Once a case has been assigned to a specific conduct or hearing officer, that officer will complete the necessary documentation and upload it to the student's file maintained through the Office of Student Development. The confidentiality of student conduct records will be always maintained by those involved in the judicial proceedings. Disclosure within the University is typically limited only to those parties who are involved with the specific case or employees who have reason to be informed by virtue of their university responsibilities.
10. Evidentiary Standard. The student accountability process utilizes the "preponderance of evidence" standard to determine whether a violation of policy has occurred. The preponderance of evidence standard means the evidence supporting a finding is more convincing than the evidence in opposition to it. Findings are determined by the hearing officer(s) when a conclusion is more likely true than not.
11. Voluntary Withdrawal of Enrollment. Due process rights in the student accountability process are only assured for students who are presently enrolled at the University. Therefore, accused students who voluntarily withdraw enrollment from the institution while an open student accountability case is still ongoing waive their right to continued due process. The University may assume that the student has no intention to comply with the remaining procedures in the accountability process following their withdrawal.

The University reserves the right to cease all subsequent steps in a student accountability process once the student formally withdraws enrollment. However, the University may also choose to proceed with investigating allegations against the accused former student and hold a conduct hearing without the accused present. In the instance that findings and sanctions are completed, they will be sent to the former student via email and maintained as part of that former student's educational record.

IV. Sanctions

Sanctions are the various corrective, restorative, or educational measures that are required of a student in response to a violation of university policy. Following a student conduct hearing, if the student was found responsible for violating University policy, the hearing officer will assign appropriate sanctions as a result. Fulfillment or completion of all assigned sanctions will be required of that student as a condition for the student's continued enrollment at Northwest University.

Some sanctions may alter a student's status or standing at the University (e.g., probation, suspension, or dismissal). The following is a list of possible sanctions, though there may be others not listed:

- Community service. Community service can be assigned in conjunction with other departments on campus or as an individual project assigned by the Area Coordinator.
- Counseling. Some situations may warrant the expertise of a licensed clinical mental health professional. In most cases, counseling would be a suggestion rather than a requirement.
- Dismissal. Dismissal is the permanent separation of the student from the university, otherwise known as expulsion. In the case of dismissal, the student will not be readmitted to the University or permitted on campus.
- Drug screen. If drug use is reasonably suspected, a drug screening may be required. The screening may be conducted on a planned or spontaneous basis at the discretion of the conduct officer. The student will be responsible for any fees resulting from this sanction.

- Fines. Some policies have fines as a standard sanction that differ from restitution, but still go to the benefit of the campus community. Other departments may issue fines for violations of their policies (e.g., housing and campus security).
- Health and safety check. Students who need more accountability could be subject to regular Health & Safety checks to confirm policies are being upheld.
- Housing reassignment. Students may be reassigned to a different housing placement or be removed from university housing on a temporary or permanent basis.
- Letter of apology.
- Loss of student leadership/co-curricular positions. Students may be removed from positions of leadership (including athletics) for violations on a temporary or permanent basis.
- Medical assessment. Students that threaten the safety of self or others may be required to provide documentation of medical assessment and clearance by a licensed medical care provider (e.g., psychologist, psychiatrist, or medical doctor) as a condition for continued enrollment or campus residency.
- Mentoring.
- Probation.
 - Full Citizenship Probation can be the result of violating one or more Student Community Handbook policies or committing a violation while on Provisional Citizenship Probation. Second-tier violations committed while on Probation may result in suspension. Students who are involved in student leadership, ministry teams, student organizations, or athletics may forfeit their leadership position or University-funded scholarships as deemed appropriate by their respective advisors, coaches, or supervisors. Full Citizenship Probation can be for one or more semesters.

- Provisional Citizenship Probation refers to a status for students who have violated one or more first-tier Community Handbook policies, and functions as a warning status in effect for one semester. If students violate policies while on Provisional Citizenship Probation, they may accelerate to Full Citizenship Probation.
- Research reports/reflection paper/media resource review. It may be necessary for a student to take a deeper look at a given topic and therefore, a report, literature review, or reflection paper may be assigned.
- Restitution. Students who have caused damage may be required to pay for loss, damage, or injury.
- Social restrictions/limitation of privileges. Certain policy violations may result in the loss of privileges (e.g., visitation, participation in intramurals, etc).
- Substance education program. Students who have been found to have committed a substance violation may be required to complete an online substance education program.
- Suspension refers to the separation of a student from the University for a specified amount of time. This denial of continued access to Northwest University and its activities is often in conjunction with other sanctions that must be completed prior to re-admission (e.g., counseling, educational program, or community service). While on suspension, a student is not permitted to be on university property or attend University sponsored events.
- Written warning. The purpose is to provide students with an official letter describing the violation that was broken and serves as a reminder of policy violation.

Lost and Found

If you misplace or lose something on campus, first retrace your steps and attempt to locate your property. If you cannot locate it, please advise staff where you believe you left it. You should also call or go into the security office and advise them, providing a detailed description and contact information. If you find property you believe has been lost or misplaced, ensure the owner is not nearby. If it appears that the property has been lost or misplaced, please bring the property to the security office for safekeeping.

Security officers will make every attempt to determine the owner of found property and let them know their property is at the security office. It is the owner's responsibility to come to the security office with identification to pick up their property. The security office will only hold found property for 60 days, at which time the property will be either donated, destroyed or repurposed through Student Development.
